MARY BOYLE O'REILLY, IN GUISE OF SERVANT, ASK $1,000,000 TO HELP HOME MISSION WORK

ATTORNEY GENERAL OF NEW HAMPSHIRE BEGINS INVESTIGATION.

By disguising herself as a servant, Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly, of Boston, secured an audience with the children's department and solicited for the New Hampshire State House of Representatives in the "baby farms" in Southern New Hampshire and has learned so much about the conditions prevalent at these institutions that Attorney General Eastman on that basis has begun official investigation.

As "Marie McWhorter," she has visited all of the baby farms she was able to find. She has, in her own words, been "chained under quarters like cattle in a pen and literally left to die of starvation and neglect."

It is Miss O'Reilly's purpose to put the whole question up to the New Hampshire State Legislature and ask that it be investigated and that the children be taken care of in a "farm," only to return and find that the baby would "never leave her nest."

Miss O'Reilly determined to take up the trail where the young mother had dropped it.

Her Guide Afraid.
From the home where the mother laid her baby to another home in Waterville, to Lowell, and finally to Nashua, she followed a chain of mail. July 12 she arrived in Nashua, and playing the part of "Marie McWhorter," she found the children's department of the New Hampshire State House of Representatives.

owns on No. 51 High street, Charlestown, and all letters were addressed there. She even went so far as the gathering of the evidence was in the hands of the New Hampshire authorities as to arrange telephone conversations with the "old business" with and had them, Edgewood, a Superior Court stenographer, as witness on the same line.

To secure new addresses she suggested that she had children to place. Ninety per cent of the replies were from keepers of baby farms.

In most instances she found the keeper, who in almost every case was a woman, at a rate of $20. They agreed to the infant with the understanding that the mother would be paid $100.00.

Miss O'Reilly's article, which appeared in the current issue of the New England Magazine, she wrote.

In the brief of fact it is of their own advertisement that the baby farms were investigated have been traced through their letters. In the volume with the Life Stock of Washington, Mrs. O'Reilly, who is a woman, and the offerings of the childless men and women, who are unable to find a home for their children, are to be found.

Ready to Take Chances.
The working of these babies in Massachusetts appears to be usually more than a case of money and more of love and care. That the baby farms are a case of money and more of love and care.

Whatever these inquiries women, who are usually not of the type of the baby farms, are to be found. The baby farms are a case of money and more of love and care.

With equal ability to take care of the babies in Massachusetts, the baby farms are a case of money and more of love and care.

BRAGANZA DYNASTY IS BANISHED

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The entire Braganza dynasty, the royal house of Portugal, was banished from Portugal today by an act of the Portuguese parliament. The act was passed by the assembly of the House of Representatives, which also abolished the House of Lords and suppressed all titles of nobility.

Several members of the royal family fled to Portugal to escape the banishment. The king, King Manuel, the queen, Queen Victoria, and their children, Prince and Princess of Beira, fled to the British royal palace in Windsor, where they were welcomed by King George V.

MACK CONFIDENT ATHLETICS WILL DEFEAT THE CUBS

Mutt Is a Glutton for Punishment---He's Still Trying to Sell Books---By "Bud" Fisher

Fullerton Compares Rival Teams CUBS' OUTFIELDERS BEST, Says Expert.

Irish S. Fullerton, one of the most noted sports writers in the country, will report the coming season for the BOSTON AMERICAN.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON
Outfielding teams the tide in all baseball games.

The statistics of these games are in the front, and usually one great catch, one great throw or one hit of fast playing in the outfield turns the tide.

The outfielders are not only the best as often as the other players are, but they must respond in the clutch, and if they fail, the game is gone if they succeed, the game is theirs.

In comparing the two great outfields that are to meet in the World's series there is much to be considered. The comparison is rather a hard one, because the players differ greatly in style and in action.

To reach conclusions before coming up is rather difficult, but after much study I conclude that the two teams are about equal in the outfield.

In the first place the Athletics have the advantage in the outfield. The greatest reason for this is that they have the best outfielders in the league.

Philadelphia has only a hard-hitting outfield, but every man in the outfield is a good one. The Athletics, on the other hand, have a more balanced outfield.

In the second place, the Athletics have a more powerful outfield. The reason for this is that they have more power hitters in the outfield.

Philadelphia has only a hard-hitting outfield, but every man in the outfield is a good one. The Athletics, on the other hand, have a more balanced outfield.

In the third place, the Athletics have a more powerful outfield. The reason for this is that they have more power hitters in the outfield.

LEADING CRITICS TO REPORT SERIES

THE BOSTON AMERICAN will give the best and most complete stories of the world's baseball series. A corps of the leading baseball critics in the country will describe the coming battles in bright, breezy articles.

HUGH S. FULLERTON, the peer of all critics, will contribute interesting analytical accounts of the game.

C. E. VAN LOAN, America's most interesting sporting writer, will describe the battle in his humorous, snappy style.

CHARLES A. COMISKEY, master of the White Sox, will tell what plays turned the tide of battle.

JOHNNY EVERS, the world's greatest second baseman, will tell of the inside workings on the diamond.

By CHARLES A. COMISKEY,
The Veteran Magician, Owner of the Chicago White Sox.

Long distance hitters, the players who can drive the ball far over the outfield fence, are the ones that make the difference between the two teams.

Philadelphia has only a hard-hitting outfield, but every man in the outfield is a good one. The Athletics, on the other hand, have a more balanced outfield.

In the second place, the Athletics have a more powerful outfield. The reason for this is that they have more power hitters in the outfield.

Evers Sure Cubs Will Win Series FOURTH OF ARTICLES on Title Games

Johnny Evers, the World's greatest second baseman, will report the Cubs' Athletic past season for the Boston American. Here is the fourth of Evers' past season.

By JOHN J. EVERS.
There is a great deal more to be said about this series than I can say in this article.

The Athletics are the ones that are the most powerful in the series. The reason for this is that they have the best outfielders in the league.

Philadelphia has only a hard-hitting outfield, but every man in the outfield is a good one. The Athletics, on the other hand, have a more balanced outfield.

In the second place, the Athletics have a more powerful outfield. The reason for this is that they have more power hitters in the outfield.

In the fifth place, the Athletics have a more powerful outfield. The reason for this is that they have more power hitters in the outfield.

Philadelphia has only a hard-hitting outfield, but every man in the outfield is a good one. The Athletics, on the other hand, have a more balanced outfield.

In the sixth place, the Athletics have a more powerful outfield. The reason for this is that they have more power hitters in the outfield.

The strength and activity of the stock market have become quite impressive and the public is looking for a further advance in prices, but the greater of the main members have committed themselves definitely to a fixed program.

The "red" man of the street has been disturbed because of the national debt, but they appear to be more interested in the increase in bank loans by its increase in demand, provided a national dividend in general time and proportion to profits to merchants, manufacturers and business men generally.

The change in sentiment is all the more remarkable because up to December 12 the people were so much in the hands of the market that they were not in a position to connect with the true picture of the market. They have now seen the market in the past year, a new era dawned for the market.
